Dr. Vos is the Director of the Professional Experience Program and a Clinical Associate Professor at the University of Iowa College of Pharmacy.

She oversees and advances experiential education for the doctor of pharmacy program which accounts for over a third of the curriculum. She creates and delivers preceptor educational programs and promotes pharmacists in developing new teaching sites for students.

Her classroom teaching is focused on pediatrics, pharmacy practice, and leadership. Additionally, she is the co-director for the College's Teaching and Learning Curriculum for Residents and Fellows where she teaches and inspires new educators in pharmacy practice.

She has served as a preceptor in pediatrics, academic leadership, and a global health experience in Punta Gorda, Belize. She has published articles and presented topics on experiential education, co-curricular learning, and preceptor development in the US, Japan, and Italy.

She graduated from the University of Tennessee College of Pharmacy and completed a Pharmacy Practice Residency in Memphis, Tennessee followed by a Pediatric Specialty Residency in Charleston, South Carolina. Dr. Vos is a member of the Iowa Pharmacy Association (IPA), American Pharmacists Association (APhA), American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy (AACP), and the Pediatric Pharmacy Advocacy Group and has held leadership roles with APhA, IPA, and AACP.

The joy of her life is being a wife to Jeremy and a mom to Claire and Emily. Travel and exploration with her family and friends help to keep her open to new ideas and ways of thinking.
