

Oct 07, 2014

Interview Guide for Students of the College of Business Administration at AAU

The Deanship of Students Affairs in collaboration with the College of Business Administration at Al Ain University in Abu Dhabi organized an interview guide for new business school students, where the purpose of this merging was to identify the new students with the college, its diverse competencies and knowledge of the members of the college, as considerably as how to utilize the university students' system and other miscellaneous services.

Dr. Samir Al-Barghouti, Deputy Dean of the College of Business Administration, pronounced that the college is keen to make a learning environment equipped with the latest technological means to assist scholars build up their sciences and encourages them to learn in a technologically advanced learning environment based on e-learning, and promote independent learning skills and lifelong scholarship. Obviously, the positive interaction between the pupils, staff members and governing body has contributed to the development of university training and serve all civil society institutions.

For his part, Dr. Amer Kasim, Head of Accounting and Financial Banks, welcomed the new students during the encounter, and emphasized the need for careful choice of specialty commensurate with the student's accomplishments and abilities and that they should abide by the university regulations.

During the meeting, a detailed presentation of the e-learning system was made, as well as encouraging the founding of a distinguished environment for the students through the activation site of the university, and the utilization of technology for communication and constructive interaction.

Press Release Link