

Apr 27, 2015

Al Ain University of Science and Technology embraces Spanish students for intensive courses

In the context of promoting international academy and positioning it at a high epistemic standard in Al Ain University of Science and Technology's relations with prestigious institutions, the university embraced student delegation of the Spanish college of an international business graduate (GLOBAL BUSINESS SCHOOL) ESCULA DE FINANZAS in a two-week visit. The aim of the student delegation's visit is to introduce them to the economy and methods of international business in UAE within an intensive course in the curriculum of the master students.

And the Spanish delegation was greeted at the Abu Dhabi campus by Professor AbdelHafid Belarbi, AAU Vice President, and Dr. Samir Al-Barghouti, Deputy Dean of the College of Business Administration, and a number of professors and students.

The course contents have been distributed to 25 hours, where a number of college professors presented the UAE economy as being active in bringing different economic sectors together, moreover, they presented to them the characteristics of the markets' structures and gave an analytical study of the strengths and opportunities in the UAE economy. Hence, came along the discussion of the art of negotiation and cultural characteristics of the client and economic means of executing businesses locally and logistically, in accordance with the applicable UAE customs.

They have also been introduced to the construction sector that shows real and laudable UAE companies, the international tenders and their policies. Finally, a study on the reality of human resources and management techniques for building a knowledgeable society in the efforts of the UAE through upgrading the economy to meet the challenges of the rapid development of the information technology sector with the beginning of the 21st century.

Professor AbdelHafid Belarbi expressed his delight for hosting the student of Spanish delegation, adding that the university would remain open for such cognitive and valuable visits. And Ms. Monica Edrira, head of the delegation of the student, showed her utmost satisfaction upon the successful scientific visit to Al Ain University that generously conducted field trips for the students to various construction sites of Abu Dhabi, as well as visiting the city's spectacular tourist attractions. They are also pleased for the kind Arabic hospitality which they have been receiving throughout the visit. And for their part, the members of the student delegation are impressed with the amazing development of the UAE, and expressed their gratitude to Al Ain University of Science and Technology in their amplification for the scientific and educational opportunities received and for their nice treatment.

Press Release Link