Health information and medical services provided by AAU at “Health, Nutrition & Fitness” Forum

Al Ain University of Science and Technology participated with a special booth at the “6th Exhibition of Health, Nutrition & Fitness 2016”, which was held at the United Arab Emirates University in participation with a number of government and private hospitals, medical centers and academic institutions from UAE. The students of the College of Pharmacy represented the university at the exhibition by providing medical advices and presenting brochures and gifts.

The participation of the university in this exhibition comes in order to raise the health and nutrition awareness, and strengthen the cultural, health and physical awareness in the community, where the Al Ain University of Science and Technology is seeking to be present in all conferences, workshops and internal and external events which contribute in the community service and promote ways to communicate with the school and university’s students.
